Postgame Notes
Arizona Coyotes 4, Colorado Avalanche 2
Stanley Cup Playoffs | Round 1, Game 3 | Aug. 15, 2020
Colorado Leads Series 2-1

First Star
Darcy Kuemper (49 svs)

Second Star
Conor Garland (1a)

Third Star
Nathan MacKinnon (1a)

TEAM STATISTICS
Avalanche
- Shots: 51
- Power Play: 0-3
- Penalty Kill: 3-3
- Faceoffs: 56%

Arizona
- Shots: 23
- Power Play: 0-3
- Penalty Kill: 3-3
- Faceoffs: 44%

TEAM NOTES
Colorado finished with 51 shots, the sixth time since the club moved to Denver that it has recorded 50+ shots in a postseason contest. The most recent occurrence was in Game 4 of the first round against the Calgary Flames last season (April 17, 2019 vs. Calgary).

The Avalanche played its 200th playoff game since moving to Denver and is now 113-87 in postseason games since 1996.

INDIVIDUAL NOTES
Andre Burakovsky notched his third goal of the playoffs, matching his postseason career high of three set during the 2017 Stanley Cup Playoffs as a member of the Washington Capitals.

Nathan MacKinnon tallied an assist and has registered a point in each of Colorado's first six postseason contests. He joins Joe Sakic (4x; last: 2004), Peter Forsberg (3x; last: 2004), Milan Hejduk (2001), Sandis Ozolinsh (2000) and Michel Goulet (1985) as the only six players in Avalanche/Nordiques franchise history to open a playoff season with a point streak of six or more games.

Cale Makar registered seven shots, a postseason career high and the second-most shots by an Avalanche rookie in the postseason in franchise history (Chris Drury, 9, May 28, 1999 vs. Dallas). It's the most shots by an Avalanche/Nordiques rookie defenseman in the playoffs.

Makar's also set a new postseason career high in time on ice, recording 25:42.

Samuel Girard tallied his third assist of the playoffs, a new career high that surpasses his previous best of two set during the 2018-19 postseason.

Nathan MacKinnon finished with seven shots, which matches his postseason career high (6x - last: May 2, 2019 vs. San Jose).